Wipf Stock Publishers, 2016. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book. William McClemans early life in Ireland involved great personal loss which would overshadow his life. He later studied at Trinity College, Dublin and was ordained in 1899 in the Church of England in Perth, Western Australia where his older brother, Tomas, was already serving. William ministered in the parishes of Greenbushes, Murchison Goldfelds, Geraldton and Boulder before becoming Rector of Christ Church, Claremont where he was a popular parish priest. He also made a lasting contribution to education in the State by supporting the small school that became St Hilda s Anglican School for Girls, persuading the Anglican Church to buy what became Guildford Grammar School and by establishing the School that became Christ Church Grammar School. During WWI William served as a chaplain in Egypt, Sinai and France. The war exacted a heavy toll and on his return to Christ Church he gradually lost the capacity for effective ministry. William resolved to go farming in the area north west of Wongan Hills and also separated from his wife Ada and their five daughters. Farming life was tough and the impact of the Great Depression led him to lose his farm. He then lived for seven years in meagre quarters near one of the monks wells in the West Kondut area. William later married Vi Forrest and lived with her in Claremont until her death. In his final years he was supported by his daughter Dorothy Sanders and her family. Several of his children and grandchildren have become well-known West Australian identities. This is a story in which the threads of triumph and tragedy are interwoven into the tapestry of a remarkable life. Ric Barrett-Lennard grew up on a farm in the area near where William McClemans...
