Moler and Wife, February 1912 Today, February 6th, we are on our way to Mexico, and we want to take you with us. We are leaving the Park Row Station of the Illinois Central at 9:40 A. M., and as we walk down Michigan Ave., the chilly wind of this zero day cuts and bites as it sweeps from the sea of ice that now covers frigid Lake Michigan. After due deliberation on account of Mexican war talk, we have decided to make this trip, not that we have a desire for war or to leave the cold, for this has been a splendid winter, but rather that we hear the call from far distant mountains, missions, monasteries and monks, and have a thirst for the romance and historic adventures that abound in them. As we steam away on our pilgrimage that has been long in anticipation, the snow-covered fields of Illinois form a picture in rare contrast to what we expect to see upon awaking in the morning. We find here in this country well stocked farms, substantial farm houses and mammoth barns, but February in Illinois affords no scenery or sights of special interest until Cairo is reached at dusk, when a very pleasant view from the bridge across the Ohio is afforded of the river filled with floating ice. The next morning, February 7th, breaks bright and fair, and we find ourselves in Mississippi, but to our surprise the weather is crisp and somewhat colder than is usual this time of the year for this semi-tropical climate. Strips of water by the track are covered with sheet...
